VICTORIANS SEE PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF SUN

Drastic Action On Kidd Report To Be Delayed Business Interests Want Adjustments On Gradual Lines

Recommendations of Committee, However, Are Talk of the Town To-day; With Opinions Differing Violently

Proposed Wage-slashing and Dismissals Draw Criticism in Opinions Voiced To-day

The Kidd report to-day eclipsed the eclipse as the talk of the town.

Since the first complete details of the report were published here yesterday afternoon in The Victoria Daily Times every angle and possibility of the recommendations and proposals have been canvassed. With the government activities for the whole province centring here, it was early apparent that Victoria's interest in the report was very real.

Premier Tolmie and others highly placed in the government were non-committal on the report. He made the usual declaration that the government was giving it consideration and would announce its course in due time. This was interpreted as making it appear that the government was not losing its head over the report, or even getting excited.

NO NEED FOR ALARM

One highly placed advisor said there was no revelation in the report of weakness in the government's financial cut that Finance Minister Jones had not been long familiar with.

After the first alarm due to the report's recommendations calling for wide-spread discharge and pay-cutting among civil servants, teachers and liquor board employees, there was a return to better feeling as the intimations from the heads of the government spread through the service to the effect that there would be no rash, drastic or hasty action.

$1,250,000 VICTORIA CUT

Recommendations in the report for reductions in government pay and staffs would mean a cut in Victoria's payroll of around $1,250,000 a year, it was estimated. This sum includes the loss through the suggested switching of liquor board warehousing and activities to New Westminster, where they would be centred for the whole province.

Business men, unconnected with the government, were generally non-committal in their opinions on the report. Every one had approval for certain recommendations in the report, while for other recommendations he had emphatic denunciation.

BUSINESSMEN'S ATTITUDE

One leading merchant in the loop district summed up a vast section of Victoria business opinion when he said: "Taxation has to come down a long way if merchants and business men are to carry on. Our provincial government affairs have got into a bad hole, as expenditures have been

Social "Caste System" in B.C. Involved in Education Proposals, Says Weir

Vancouver, Aug. 31.—Imposition of the "social caste system" on the population of British Columbia will be the inevitable result of putting into effect the educational proposals and recommendations in the Kidd report, according to Dr. G. M. Weir, head of the department of education and professor of education in the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Weir to-day described the report as being reactionary to the de-

Senior Member For Victoria Issues Statement of Views From London

B.C. Much Harmed By It, He Says, Seeing No Need For Panic Proposals

"Scrap the Kidd report!" is the advice from London which reached Victoria to-day from Reginald Hayward, M.P., senior member in the Legislature for this city. He described the document as "mischievous."

Mr. Hayward, who has been on an European trip for the summer, issued a statement of his attitude towards the report, following the recent publication by The Times of London of a summary of the chief recommendations of the report, including $6,000,000 retrenchment in annual expenditure.

Storm of Criticism Greeted Kidd Recommendation to Curtail Free Education

Would Put Child Labor on Already Overcrowded Market Is Protest

Recommendation by the Kidd committee that children past fourteen years of age be refused public school education unless they pay fees has aroused strong criticism from educational experts and many prominent citizens.

The implication that elementary education should be abolished, as far as children over fourteen are concerned, has been particularly criticized, this being regarded as infringing upon rights long regarded as basic to the constitution of the province.

The views of a number of Saanich trustees typify the attitude of most of the school boards of Great Victoria. The whole idea of charging for elementary education is basically wrong, trustees stated. Such a policy would not be beneficial to the people of British Columbia as a whole, it was argued. They agreed that the situation in regard to high school tuition was on a differing plane, and that justification could be found for charging children of more advanced years.

IMPACT TOO HEAVY

Such a scale of fees as is suggested for high school tuition, with children past fourteen paying one-half the full cost, and those past sixteen assessed the full cost of tuition and capital investment, was considered far too heavy an impact. The result, it was claimed, would be such a reduction in attendance at most schools as would result in their closure.

"JUST SELL OUT"

This view was supported by practically all the other educational experts interviewed who were willing to discuss the Kidd report at this time. One well-known trustee, while declining to be quoted, said "These recommendations, if adopted, would practically shut up all the high schools in British Columbia. We would just have to sell out. The parents of children at high school simply could not pay the charges. The present four-year curriculum at high schools means that practically every child has to attend after its sixteenth birthday. Under the Kidd committee's recommendation

JAPAN NAVAL MOVES DENIED

Shanghai, Aug. 31.—Rumors that Japan was increasing her naval strength at Shanghai, as circulated in Chinese newspapers, brought a sweeping denial from the Japanese consulate to-day.

The denial said no ships whatever had been ordered to Shanghai.

As a result of continued rumors appearing in the Chinese press of impending renewed Japanese-Chinese hostilities in the Shanghai area, Captain Sugisakawa, commander of the Japanese naval landing party here, protested to Mayor Wu Teh-chang to-day, demanding unjustified articles cease.

BUILDINGS OVER $700,000

Municipality of Saanich Passes Victoria City in Construction Totals For Year

Building figures for Greater Victoria for the eight months ending yesterday totaled slightly over $700,000 in value.

Saanich showed an advance over Victoria and neighboring municipalities with a total of $231,293 for the year to date.

The figures for the eight-month period were announced as follows: Saanich $231,293, Victoria $227,783, Oak Bay $179,208 and Esquimalt $62,359, making a grand total of $700,843. The district figures for the last month to August 30 were: Victoria $16,035, Saanich $29,350, Oak Bay $13,730 and Esquimalt $7,600, giving a total of $66,715.

The largest construction projects during August included a new boiler house for Ormonds Limited on Mary Street; reconstruction of the Dalziel Box Factory at Bridge Street, reconstruction of the Sylvester Block and Gordon Block, the latter for the Standard Furniture Company on Yates Street, and the Tudor store apartments building for E. B. Brierley at the corner of Newport Avenue and Windsor Road, Oak Bay.

London May Have Bus Strike

Canadian Press
London, Aug. 31.—London is threatened with a strike of omnibus drivers. Delegates at a conference of omnibus men arrived at a decision the union should authorize a strike September 23, the date proposed wage reductions having been set to become effective.

Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union, announced the decision to-day. In the meantime the possibility of further discussions between representatives of the men and their employers has not been precluded by the strike decision.

Governor Talks On Empire Conference

His Excellency Speaker at Canadian Club Luncheon This Afternoon

Conference Tribute to Soundness of British Empire, He Says

"First of all, I think, we may all regard as a remarkable achievement the very fact that the Imperial Conference was held at all. The fact of its having met is an event of far-reaching importance and one that cannot fail to result in good, quite apart from the decisions subsequently arrived at."

said His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, in an address before the Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel to-day.

"Surely," he said, "it is a tremendous tribute to the unity, the intrinsic soundness of the British Empire that its statesmen can thus come together, can argue one with another and can even disagree, without any tinge of bitterness and rancor, and after a due period of discussion, after treading the always difficult path of negotiation, can finally reach their agreed objective."

Other guests of honor of the club were: His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, A. F. Lascelles, private secretary; Lieut. D. H. Fuller, R.N., A.D.C.; Major Walter Bapty, honorary A.D.C., and the visiting English Public School boys.

"Having left Ottawa so recently, I feel that you will expect me to make some reference to the Imperial Economic Conference," said His Excellency at the beginning of his address. "In going so, I speak, of course, under some difficulty. The Governor-General, as

GERMAN PRINCE VISITOR HERE

F. Hohenzollern, Son of Ex-Crown Prince of Germany, Avoided Publicity in City

Made Tour of North American Continent to Study Industrial Field

Inconspicuous because of his desire to avoid publicity, Friedrich Hohenzollern, son of the Ex-Crown Prince of Germany and grandson of the former Kaiser, has been a visitor to the city during the last week, calling here in the course of his transcontinental tour.

He arrived here last Wednesday from Seattle, accompanied by a secretary, went about unostentatiously and was greatly interested in what he saw of the city, this being his first visit to British Columbia.

INDUSTRIALLY INCLINED
Ex-Prince Friedrich, since Germany became a republic, has been studying the industrial field and came to the North American continent to continue his studies, the tour being embarked upon as an educational one.

He visited all the great industrial centres of the United States, saw something of the film colony at Hollywood, and made his way leisurely up the Pacific Coast before coming on to Victoria.

The ex-prince holds no false ideas about the house of Hohenzollern and, whatever the future of Germany, he plans to follow his industrial bent. In the future he will doubtless be heard from in the highly-industrialized field of Germany.

GOVERNOR WILL VISIT QUALICUM

Earl and Countess Bessborough to Tour Vancouver Island To-morrow

The Governor-General and Countess of Bessborough will leave Victoria to-morrow morning for a tour of Vancouver Island as far as Qualicum Beach. At Duncan they will decorate the War Memorial before being the luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Drayton at their residence, "Ham Hill," Maple Bay Road, where a reception will be held prior to the afternoon.

The Governor-General will be given a civic welcome at Ladysmith and will also be the guests of the city of Nanaimo for a short time.

The vice-regal party will arrive at Qualicum Beach in time for dinner. Friday will be devoted to fishing in the streams adjacent to Qualicum Beach and on Saturday morning Earl and Countess Bessborough will return to Victoria to keep a number of week-end engagements.

On Monday the vice-regal party will enjoy a cruise along the coast of Vancouver Island on board H.M.C.S. Steens, leaving Esquimalt at 11 o'clock and returning at 3.45 o'clock. Following the cruise, the Governor-General's party will be the guests at a reception to be given at the naval barracks by the commander-in-charge and naval officers.

RECEIVES NOTE ON GERMAN ARMY

PREMIER HERRIOT OF FRANCE

Cherbourg, France, Aug. 31.—A note from the German Government concerning reorganization of the Reichswehr (army) was handed to Premier Herriot to-day by a secretary who boarded the steamer on which the Premier was returning to France from the Island of Jersey.

The Premier refused to discuss the situation. The German note will come up before the cabinet at to-morrow's session.

Registration To Start For City List of Voters

Registration of householders and licensees for the city voters' list will commence to-morrow. It was announced by City Clerk M. F. Hunter this morning. The list will be open for two months, September and October, and every attempt will be made to put all eligible voters in good standing for the December elections. Four members of the civic staff and one special agent have been appointed by the council to take declarations.

YOUNG QUITS TORONTO SWIM

Favorite in Big Marathon Nearly Drowned Before Taken From Water

Toronto, Aug. 31.—George Young, Toronto, one of the world's outstanding marathon swimmers and favorite to win to-day's fifteen-mile marathon swim, was nearly drowned shortly after passing the fifth lap buoy, directly in front of the finishing line but half way through the swim.

In sight of thousands of horrified spectators, Young struck a large float which marked the course and sank instantly. He was in fifth position. Johnny Walker, his coach, who was directly in front of his protégé, drew attention of other swimmers to Young's plight. Several dived after him and he was brought to the surface and taken into a boat.

Sun, Partly Obscured By Moon, Seen at Times Through Breaks in Clouds Over This Part of British Columbia

Ottawa Citizens See Great Sight

Conditions For Astronomers' Observations Patchy in Eastern Quebec and New England

The greatest of celestial shows, an eclipse of the sun, was witnessed at frequent intervals by Victorians between 10.30 this forenoon and 12.30. Here it was viewed as a partial eclipse, while people in western Quebec province and the New England States saw it as a total eclipse.

Although the sky was overcast and clouds hung low, thousands of people in Victoria and elsewhere on Vancouver Island managed to get one or more glimpses of the spectacle. About 11.20, when the moon reached its maximum coverage of the sun in Victoria, the solar body seemed to make a special effort to penetrate the cloud bank and watchers were rewarded by seeing the reduced disc of the sun. At the period of greatest eclipse the sun resembled the moon in its last quarter only the crescent was not so pronounced and was more rounded.

At the Meteorological Observatory on Grouse Hill more than 100 persons gathered to view the eclipse. It was seen there through the five-inch telescope as projected on a white screen. The big revolving dome was swung back and a good view was had of the phenomenon, despite the many clouds drifting across the sky. P. Napier Denison, superintendent of the observatory, stated Victorians had been particularly fortunate in their view of the eclipse. About two-tenths of the sun was covered for more than half an hour, he stated.

When the eclipse was over the visitors were shown over the observatory by Mr. Denison, assisted by W. Burton and P. F. Hope, members of the staff.

SEEN AT CHEMUNAU

Chemunau, B.C., Aug. 31.—The partial eclipse of the sun was seen here by many people to-day. Looking through smoked glasses between 11 and 12 o'clock, watchers obtained an excellent view of the moon-bitten sun. The weather and sky were very favorable.

SEEN AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo, B.C., Aug. 31.—A clear, bright sky to-day showed the partial solar eclipse to hundreds of people. Crowds thronged the streets and watched the earth's satellite blot out almost half the sun.

SEEN AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Ottawa was the city of the fortunate to-day, its eclipse-conscious citizens getting a perfect view of the world's greatest show during the early stages, though the 97 per cent of totality—the capital's share—was somewhat obscured by the odd floating clouds which at times spoiled the observations of the smoke-glassed thousands.

Manitoba Ministry Called to Discuss Position of University and Anglican Church District

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Condition of the depleted trust funds of the University of Manitoba and the Rupert's Land province of the Anglican Church will be discussed at a cabinet meeting to be held in the near future. Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education, made the announcement to-day.

"We feel it is a matter of government policy and one that requires immediate discussion," Mr. Hoey said. "Several cabinet ministers at present are out of the city. As soon as they return and a full slate of ministers is available a meeting will be held and the whole question will be thoroughly reviewed."

Questioned as to whether the government would consider making good shortages in trust funds, until a week ago in the custody of John A. Macbray, K.C., the minister said he was not in position to say.

COLLEGE PLANS

Bereft of its endowment funds, St. John's College and School, oldest institution of the University of Manitoba, prepared to-day to open for the next school year on September 20. In the meantime, audit of trust funds received.

London, Aug. 31.—Scotland Yard ringed London to-day with a blockade against "motor bandits."

Seventy hundred motor cars were stopped by policemen called secretly into action by Baron Trenchard, new chief commissioner of the Metropolitan Police and head of Scotland Yard. NEW DOMINION LOAN MAY BE $50,000,000

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Reports published recently that the Dominion Government would float a loan of $200,000,000 this fall are given no credence in official circles well informed.

Any Dominion loan to be used this year, it is said, would be a modest sum. It is learned an amount of $50,000,000 is mentioned, but there has been no decision on the subject.

The situation is that a residuum amounting to $24,000,000, of one of the war loans will fall due December 1 next. That maturity may be handled by re-conversion. In the event of this course being followed, a loan of about $50,000,000 may be floated. The loan would be a domestic one, payable in Canadian funds. Following the lines of the 1931 conversion loan in November last, it is probable the interest fixed would be about 4½ per cent.

PEGGED GRAIN PRICE DEBATED

Conference in Regina To-morrow on Plan for Settling Farmers' Debts

Regina, Aug. 31.—At the call of the Saskatchewan Government, high officials of banking institutions, trust companies, mortgage and loan organizations, implement companies and similar organizations will assemble in the legislative chamber of the Parliament Buildings here to-morrow afternoon to discuss debt adjustment problems with Premier Anderson and members of his cabinet.

The discussions, it is said, will likely centre around a pegged price for grain in settlement of debts contracted prior to 1932. A few merchants and several implement companies have been taking wheat in payment of debts. It is stated unofficially that to-morrow's conference was called in the hope the movement could be extended greatly. The hope really is to establish a pegged price on all grains which would be acceptable to all the larger institutions operating in the province, including, if possible, insurance companies. It is also claimed that one institution—possibly there are more—is working on a scheme whereby all forms of farm produce would be accepted and the debtors credited with the "market price as sold. Such a scheme would entail the establishment of distributing places in the larger centres.

WAR MEMORIAL PARTS MOVED

London, Aug. 31.—Canada's war memorial made the first stage of its 3,000-mile journey to-day when portions of the colossal group of statuary were transported by road to Hyde Park from the studio at Farnborough, Kent, where they were created.

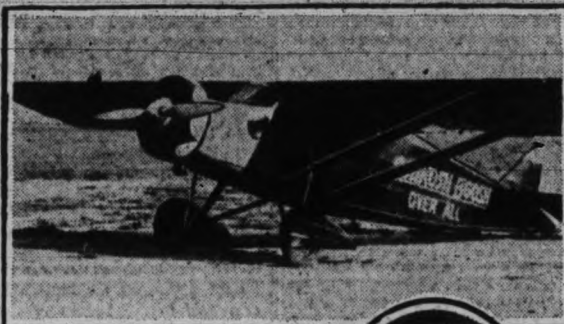

In Hyde Park the memorial is to stand for a year, after which it will be taken to its permanent place in Ottawa. The tribute to Canadian heroism in the Great War was created by the March family of nine brothers and sisters. A great granite arch, embellished by statues grouped to represent every branch of the Canadian services, it stands sixty feet high.

Withdraw Charge Against Nurse

Amherst, N.S., Aug. 31.—A murder charge against Margaret Jackson, local nurse, was withdrawn by the prosecuting authorities yesterday and Miss Jackson was discharged from custody. The nurse had been caring for the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. James Curbett of McCam, prior to the child's death May 10. A subsequent investigation showed traces of a poisonous disinfectant in milk used by the household, and a charge was laid ten days ago.

At the continuation of the preliminary hearing before Magistrate A. S. Mackenzie yesterday, C. R. Smith, K.C., prosecutor, stated that on the evidence he would withdraw the charge.

NORTH WALES COAST SEARCHED FOR MISSING ATLANTIC PLANE

Canadian Press

Carnarvon, Wales, Aug. 31.—Authorities here are keeping a close watch along the north Wales coast and at Cardigan Bay for possible traces of the missing transatlantic fliers, Clyde Lee and John Bochkon, as a consequence of a report that an airplane motor had been heard on the night they were due over England.

An Automobile Association scout inspector reported that last Friday night, while he was talking with his wife on the shore of Cardigan Bay, he distinctly heard the roar of a powerful airplane engine which appeared to come from some distance at sea. He heard it for several minutes and then it stopped suddenly.

Clyde Lee and John Bochkon took off from Barra, Vt., on August 23 for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, whence they intended to fly to Oslo. They left Harbor Grace on the following day and since then there has been no trace of them.

PACTS ARE LEAD FOR CONFERENCE

Ottawa Will Influence World Economic Assembly, Says Hon. W. D. Stewart

New York, Aug. 31.—Agreements reached at the recent Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa will help restore prosperity in the countries of the British Empire and should serve as a lead for the forthcoming World Economic Conference, in the opinion of Hon. W. D. Stewart, Minister of Finance and Customs of New Zealand, who was a leading participant in the Ottawa negotiations, and is now in New York on his way home.

Mr. Stewart said in an interview the Ottawa agreements were not directed against other countries, but had as their objective improvement of economic conditions in the states comprising the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"I understand some of the trade agreements made at Ottawa, particularly the one between Canada and Great Britain, are bound to have an adverse effect on American trade," Mr. Stewart said. "That, however, would be inevitable, as one objective of all the agreements is to help divert trade from foreign countries and replace it by trade within the Empire. Such a policy, however, does not involve any hostile attitude toward either America or other countries. Indirectly, of course, a revival of trade within the Empire will help restore the buying power of its different countries."

WEST INDIES UNION MOOTED

British Commission Appointed to Consider Confederation of Trinidad With Other Islands

London, Aug. 31.—Members of a commission to examine the possibility of closer union between Trinidad and the Windward and Leeward Islands were appointed yesterday by the Colonial Office.

The chairman is General Sir Charles Ferguson, who was Governor-General of New Zealand from 1924 to 1930. The commission is expected to leave for the West Indies before November 15.

Other members are Sir Charles Orr, formerly Governor of the Bahamas, and Sir Sydney Armitage-Smith, financial expert.

Discussing the Colonial Office's announcement of the commission, The London Observer said the question of confederation was not merely one of combined bargaining power in obtaining markets for West Indies products.

"Before long," it suggested, "Canada will be as closely concerned in the West Indies as Great Britain heretofore, and the colonies must speak with one voice if they are to determine their economic future."

GRANT MORDEN ESTATE IS $40

London, Aug. 31.—The will of the late Lt.-Col. Walter Grant Morden, Canadian-born British M.P. and at one-time rated a millionaire, was proved yesterday and showed the gross value of the estate to be $40. He had been adjudged bankrupt in April, 1931, with liabilities of $600,000 and assets of $92,000.

TRADE IS URGED AS PEACE BASIS

Prof. W. J. Hinton of London Speaks in Calgary on "Future of Pacific"

Calgary, Aug. 31.—Unless an alternative to the "war and mass movements of the past" is found, conflict between the white and yellow races is bound to come, according to Prof. W. J. Hinton of London, England, who addressed members of Calgary service clubs yesterday.

Speaking on the "Future of the Pacific," Professor Hinton pointed to the ever-increasing population of China and declared that, if ever China gained a stable place in world affairs, she would be forced to seek other fields for her vast population.

Also, he said, the future of the Pacific revealed a great social and economic force at work to upset the balance on which present policies and distribution of power were based. Japan, he said, was reactive to economic pressure and the "most powerful nation of the Far East" had turned aside from the "path of agreement and conciliation in which all nations had agreed to walk."

RAIN HINDERS PRAIRIE HARVEST

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Harvest operations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and to a lesser extent in Alberta have been hindered by rain during the past week, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported in a crop report issued to-day.

The report says unless the weather improves there is danger of sprouting in stocks and swaths. The western grain shows a wide variance in time of maturity. Threshing is practically complete in some southern districts of Manitoba, while cutting is just beginning in many districts of Alberta.

The recent rains have greatly improved the feed situation across the prairies. Covering conditions in the prairie provinces, the report says: "Rainy weather has hindered harvesting operations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and to a lesser extent in Alberta. The bulk of the wheat crop of Manitoba and Saskatchewan is now safe from serious reduction of yield by frost or rust. Another two weeks of fine, ripening weather are needed to put Alberta's wheat fields in the same position, but each succeeding warm day lowers the possibility of frost damage."

The possibility of rust damage to late crops is mentioned in Saskatchewan. Rust damage was confined to twenty-five farms in Alberta. Although hindered by wet weather, the movement of wheat to market is gaining momentum and now exceeds the deliveries of each of the past two years. In the first three weeks of the new crop year, 6,205,440 bushels were delivered to country elevators or shipped over loading platforms as compared with 4,603,963 bushels and 3,791,192 bushels in approximately the same periods of 1931 and 1930. Considering the lower farm carryover of old wheat this year, this represents an extremely early season.

Wheat cutting is practically completed in British Columbia and progress has been made with coarse grains. Yields are very good. The 1932 apple crop will be considerably larger than last year.

PRINCETON MAY GET EINSTEIN

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Professor Albert Einstein is reported to have accepted the invitation by the Planck Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., to join the staff of the institute. The professor, who could not be reached, is said to plan to spend five months of each year at the institute to do research work. He will be accompanied by his assistant, Dr. Walter Meyer.

Whether he will also continue his work at Mount Wilson, Pasadena, Cal., still is undecided, as is the question of whether he will go to Princeton this year.

New York, Aug. 31.—It was reported a few days ago that Professor Einstein had been invited to join the staff of the Planck Institute for Advanced Study, which was created for the advancement of the study of human relations. It was said at the time that if he accepted he probably would live in Princeton.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, director of the institute, is on his vacation in Ontario.

LUCKY MR. TASCHEREAU

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THIRTY-FIVE years the Province of Quebec has closed its financial year with a deficit. Premier Taschereau issued a statement yesterday which shows a balance on the wrong side of the provincial ledger amounting to $584,708.61. In view of this disturbed record of surpluses Mr. Taschereau proposes to attach to the financial statement some personal comments in which he will assure the people of the ancient province that despite the deficit Quebec is economically sound.

If we could tell Mr. Taschereau anything about the finances of his province as they stand short by $504,708.61 for the fiscal year ending last June, it is that he is still the most envied Premier in the whole of Canada, that, compared with the other nine, he is "sitting on the top of the world." We can not imagine what Premier Talmie and Finance Minister Jones would do if they woke up one fine morning to discover that British Columbia was "in the red" for the last fiscal year by even only a million. But we should expect them at least to choose "Happy Days Are Here Again" for a duet from the top step of the Parliament Buildings and stand treat for all and sundry.

THE GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT IS responsible to the people of British Columbia as a whole, not to any sectional interest. The affairs of remote rural communities should be as much a matter of governmental and administrative concern as those of Vancouver, Victoria or any other urban centre. Duncan, Port Alberni, Courtenay, Prince George and other similar towns are entitled relatively to at least as much consideration as the more populous places, while there are many rural districts which are entitled to more because they are subject to certain physical and other handicaps which do not exist in the larger centres. This may not be good business from the standpoint of a balance sheet, but it is necessary from a governmental standpoint. Indeed, our whole system of government is not good business except in the sense that it is better than its alternative, a dictatorship and the inevitable never-failing offspring of revolution, anarchy and chaos. It may cost much in money values, but the alternative would cost much more.

It is with these fundamental considerations in mind that the British Columbia government must view the Kidd committee report. It should consider the various recommendations made by the committee in precisely the same light that it would consider the recommendations of any other element in the province which has investigated provincial administration; as it considers, for instance, the frequent representations of boards of trades and other associations. To none of these has it any special responsibility, for none of them has any constitutional representative status; none has any mandate from the electorate of the province.

While the Kidd committee's report contains some recommendations which could not be carried out in any circumstances, and some which are almost fantastic, it also embodies certain proposals which the government might well adopt. Its recommendations for cabinet reorganization, departmental readjustment to prevent duplication and waste are sound in many aspects. Likewise its criticism of the vicious patronage system which long has ruled expenditures on public works throughout the province, and has been apparent in the purchase of supplies, should be implemented with direct effective action. The cost of public works in this province has been vastly increased in the last decade and a considerable factor in that increase has been the employment of an army of political party retainers. In fairness to the governments, however, it should not be forgotten that much of the capital expenditure on public works has been the result of pressure exercised upon it by boards of trade, some of which only two years ago wanted to crown their achievements in this respect with the establishment of connection with the Peace River.

We rather expected the committee to follow its observations on costly public works with a recommendation in favor of a highway commission or a public utilities commission which would divorce much of this expenditure from the control of political party organizations. There always will be party government in some form in British countries, for the public will not permit dictatorships, so there ought to be some body set up which will insure efficiency and economy in the control of public works, some body which will be deaf to importunities for wasteful and otherwise unnecessary projects involving the expenditure of public funds, whether they come from boards of trade or not.

RIGHT ON THE TARIFF

UNFORTUNATELY FOR MR. WILLIAM Randolph Hearst—and unfortunately for his country in a few things—the public of the United States does not take him as seriously as he would like. But on the subject of the high scale of duty which goods have to pay to get into the republic, many of his countrymen will agree with him and millions in other parts of the world as well.

Mr. Hearst's newspapers say the "pet of the Hoover administration is the bone-head Hawley-Smoot-Grundy tariff, the ravenous pest of the national household." We are told "it has killed off foreign trade with its discriminatory provisions against the merchandise of other nations, breeding resentment against American products all over the globe . . . it has closed American factories and increased the ranks of the unemployed . . . its baneful influence has been felt in every section, by every class." The next Congress, the attack proceeds, "would do well to revise the tariff in the light of reciprocal trade relations, for reciprocity is the key to foreign trade."

Those who recognize that if there are to be exports there also must be imports will find nothing new in the tariff argument of the Hearst newspapers. But unless it is constantly dinned into the ears of the public the point will not be sufficiently understood. The stark fact remains, of course, that the world's export trade is only forty per cent of what it was in 1929.

THE PRIZE RECOMMENDATION

WE MAY TAKE IT FOR GRANTED that the provincial government will not be so foolish as to pay any attention to that part of the Kidd committee's report which recommends the closing of the Victoria and Vancouver liquor warehouses, the opening of a new one at New Westminster, and the removal to that city also of the administrative offices of the Liquor Control Board.

It must be puzzling most people why such an extraordinary recommendation was made. There are so many reasons why its adoption would be false economy of the worst kind. They can be simply set out and will be obvious to all with even the most rudimentary knowledge of business. The greater part of the liquor sold in British Columbia—save, of course, that distilled in Canada—comes from the United Kingdom and other parts of Europe to the Pacific Coast by way of the Panama Canal. The first port of call is Victoria, and the consignments designated for the local warehouse are unloaded here—within a few minutes' hauling distance of their destination. The rest is taken on to Vancouver and deposited in the warehouse there—also a short distance from the ocean docks.

The effect of the Kidd committee's recommendation would be that the liquor intended for Victoria for local consumption would be taken direct to New Westminster—potwithstanding the fact that the liners bringing the liquor from the United Kingdom had been obliged to call here on their inward journey to discharge other cargo—and placed in a warehouse there.

What would follow next is easy to understand. The two Victoria stores—the same applies to several of the Island stores which get their supplies from this city—would have to send their requisitions to New Westminster for the same liquor which could have been discharged here when it arrived on this coast in the first place. The Vancouver stores would have to follow the same procedure.

Apart from this aspect of the proposal, however, we would like to remind the members of the Kidd committee that Victoria still is the capital city of British Columbia in spite of the weighty tome they have presented to the government. Its liquor sales still are the second largest in the province. The seat of government still is here; and as we already have said, we may take it for granted that neither the present nor any succeeding administration will countenance a move to close the local warehouse or remove the headquarters staff from this city—where it naturally belongs—to New Westminster or anywhere else.

If the recommendation that free education for children be abolished after the age of fourteen were adopted, more than fifty per cent of the boys and girls in our high schools would be thrown on the streets. What would the committee do with them? Would it have us relapse into barbarism by a reversion to the child-labor system which in most respectable countries has been made unlawful? Surely not.

Everybody in Victoria saw the eclipse of the sun to-day, but it was a large black cloud, not the moon, which did most of the eclipsing. Press dispatches report that a similar phenomenon marked the proceedings in the East. Is it not time that science invented something by which clouds could be prevented from butting into astronomical shows of this kind, for which, by the way, front seats are purchased at high prices by scientific observers?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SEARCHING FOR OIL
 The Calgary Herald

With restrictions applied to limit the amount of gasoline recovered from Turner Valley wells, it may strike the casual reader with surprise to learn that new wells are being drilled there, and that one of them has reached a depth of one and one-third miles. That is the deepest hole ever bored in Canadian soil. The reason behind this continued drilling in the restricted field is the belief that the wet gas hitherto found in the Valley may have seeped through from some vast reservoir of crude oil. It is in hope of striking this "mother lode" that the record-well has been drilled and is being drilled to yet greater depths. Should the crude oil reservoir be found, the Turner Valley field would become in reality what it was long supposed and represented to be, an "oil" field.

CANADA AND REPEAL
 The New York Times

Liquor shares on the Canadian stock exchanges boomed as the result of President Hoover's stand against prohibition in his acceptance speech. It is argued that in the case of repeal it will be several years before American distilleries can put on the market hard liquor sufficiently matured for export palates, and Canadian producers are bound to profit in the meanwhile. Possibly Canadian speculative enthusiasm is somewhat out of proportion to the actual time schedule but that is a way stock exchanges have.

For Canada as a whole the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment does not seem likely to be a benefit. American tourists in good years spend more than a quarter of a billion dollars a year in Canada. The number of American cars that cross the border is several millions every vacation season. While this influx is in the main determined by the facilities for getting a lawful drink, the American dollars are distributed far beyond the liquor trade channels. Hotels, private homes offering accommodation for tourists, retail merchants and others seem bound to suffer when Canadian whisky and ale go out of the country to meet the American customer instead of waiting for him at home.

A THOUGHT

The meek shall inherit the earth.—Psalm xxxvii 11.
 Meekness is the grace which, from beneath God's footstool, lifts up a candid and confiding eye, accepting God's smile of fatherly affection, and adoring those perfections which it cannot comprehend.—James Hamilton.

Loose Ends

The bigger and better eclipse just around the corner—the views of an earnest Christian—that rare and curious thing, the truth—and the notions thereon of a notable man.

By H. B. W.

THE SUN, although partially eclipsed to-day, is still worthy of your consideration, even if it is a rather small and third-rate sun, lighting a fifth-rate solar system, a kind of back-lit bedroom among the infinitely more splendid apartments of outer space. When you looked at the eclipse to-day (assuming that it occurred as scheduled, for I am writing this yesterday), you ought to have felt a little sober and a little anxious. For to-day's performance was just a small foretaste of what is to come in a big way later on. Yes, the sun is going to be permanently eclipsed pretty soon, not by the mere shadow of the moon across it, but by its own dissolution.

THE SUN is losing 360,000,000,000 tons of itself every day, radiating them out into space, heating itself recklessly into the void. Fortunately there is still quite a lot of the sun left, enough to keep you and me fairly warm until summer comes again in this climate, probably four of five years hence. Jeans calculates, however, that in a million years the sun will have heated away six per cent of its present heat, at which rate it will have lost all its heat and will have disappeared altogether in just about sixteen million years, several years after the resignation of the Talmie Government. But in just a million years, a mere million mark you, the sun having lost six per cent of its heat, the earth's temperature will be down to fifty-four degrees Fahrenheit lower than it is now. The earth will be an icy ball on which no human life can exist. A few of the harder microbes and a polar bear or two alone will remain to show that the world once produced the Great War, the depression and the Kidd report.

THE UNIVERSE, according to Jeans, will then be back to normal, lifeless as it was intended to be, as it would have been except for the curious accident of life. As you looked up at the sun to-day, partially blotted out by a shadow, you should have been thinking of your remote progeny about 900,000 years hence, who will look up year after year to see the sun getting duller, the earth getting colder, life more intolerable. And the last mark you, the sun having lost six per cent of its heat, the earth's temperature will be down to fifty-four degrees Fahrenheit lower than it is now. The earth will be an icy ball on which no human life can exist. A few of the harder microbes and a polar bear or two alone will remain to show that the world once produced the Great War, the depression and the Kidd report.

WHILE I WAS contemplating these things a Christian gentleman wrote to chide me gently for presenting such well-known astronomical facts as these to the public. He says that such discussions tend to undermine religion, and that I should try to show the public that science and religion can be reconciled, that they are not antagonistic to one another. That is the great mistake which religionists are making these days. Science of the larger sort, which holds life to be an accident, confined to this speck of dust and doomed to a quick end, can't possibly be reconciled with any religion that I have ever heard of. Certainly it is the flat denial of every belief of the Christian Church and all the other larger religions. All these religions are built around the theory that man amounts to something and has some future. All modern science is built around the certainty that man doesn't amount to anything, that he was never intended to exist, and that his only future is to freeze up about a million years from now.

YOU CAN'T reconcile the two ideas. You can't believe in the conclusion of physical science and the immortality of the human being. You have got to be on one side or the other. The scientists know where they stand exactly. The religionists are falling down because they try to stand on both sides at once. They will never get hold of the western world again until they stop attempting to balance on the tight-rope.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I'll bet that architect handed me the wrong set of plans. Instead of a filling station, this is looking more and more like a church steeple."

ence, until they deny the conclusions of the scientists and assert their own theories, unaided. The only chance religion has is to stick by mysticism, to admit that its views cannot be proved by telescopes, to remain religious instead of trying to be scientific. The two things won't mix.

AN AGITATED American authority writes an article in one of the magazines deploring the recent decline in the excellent old art of lying. He says people don't know how to lie artistically as they did in our grand-father's time, and if our ability in this direction continues to decline, life will become quite intolerable after a while. There may be some truth in this, but there is little elsewhere. I mean, it may be true that we don't lie as well as we used to, but is not true that we are telling the truth any better. As a matter of fact, it becomes increasingly difficult nowadays to get at the real truth of anything. I can't think of a single subject, however simple, of which I could ascertain the exact facts without a great deal of deep study. On the larger issues of the times, of course, on economics, politics and religion, there seems to be no truth left at all. You can be sure that ninety-nine and nine-tenths of all you see or hear or read on these subjects is untrue. You can count on every authority disagreeing. You can get a different statement of the simple and obvious facts from every authoritative person you like to question. And as you go down the scale, as you come to simpler things, the confusion tends to increase.

BUT ALL this confusion and lack of truth is not due, as many suppose, to the fact that we are all liars. The trouble is that while we have been educated not to lie, and most people don't, on the other hand, we haven't been trained at home or at school to tell the truth. There is a vast difference here, and you can see it in every public utterance and nearly every private remark which you care to examine. As a race we object to lying but we don't like truth. We train our young not to tell untruths, but we don't train them to tell truths by any means. We don't want them to. We know what would happen if they started to do it. Our system could never survive a fortnight if anything like that occurred. If everybody began telling the truth, the world would collapse, families would break up, politics would be impossible, government would be impossible, and nearly every private remark which you care to examine. MIDNIGHT TOLLS IN MADISON SQ.

Human Derelicts Roll Out
Their Pillows From Papers
Out of Ashcans

Many Women There and One's Tale Is Unusually
Macabre, But True

By GILBERT SWAN
New York, Aug. 31.—Long before midnight, the "regular guests" of Madison Square have harvested all the available newspapers from the neighborhood ashcans, benches, doorways and gutters.

By ten, they are setting down for the night. They have had their newspaper bedding hidden away or tucked in a large bundle under one arm. For the late trailers there is nothing left but the hard benches. All the best locations have been staked out by the regulars.

They are expert in the craft of making beds from old papers. They roll several dozen into a comfortable pillow and prop. They test the softness of the grass with their hands. They have learned how to pack several thick layers of paper against the grass. Then, with a street light to read by, they sit up "in bed" with a salvaged magazine.

MIDNIGHT MYSTERY
Midnight struck in the Madison Square clock tower.

Mist wreaths blinded the clock's face. Straggling ashcan combers, who had had to find what paper was left, drifted up. The benches filled fast. There were many women, looking straight ahead—as though waiting—waiting. It is the code of the derelicts that the women shall not be approached. Yet everyone seemed to know everyone else. Glances of recognition were exchanged and, now and then, a greeting as casual as one might observe in a hotel lobby.

Lights blinked through the mist in the windows of a hotel where O. Henry had written his magic tales of another generation of park dwellers.

Then the macabre and fantastic adventure began. It began with a woman's voice, a thin, high-keyed voice. The voice was saying: "So I walked all the way from the jail downtown to the park to-night—and I'm telling you, they murdered him!"

"At which point I joined in the conversation which appeared open to all comers."

"And who was murdered?" I asked. "My husband—he's in the morgue now. They've had him there for two weeks. It would never have happened if I hadn't gone to see my daughter and left him waiting."

Bit by bit, in scattered pieces, the story jigsawed together. A man and a wife were out of work. For three weeks the wife had slept on the benches of the "square." It was nice here—more refined. All the regulars seemed to know her and one recalled: "There was a night when it rained that she had to sleep in the doorway of that building across the street."

Thousands of people cross that park. Thousands must have seen a woman sleeping on a park bench. Yet no one had made the slightest gesture toward helping her. Her daughter, it seemed, had married, and religious prejudices were such that the mother could see her child only by sneaking in when the husband was away. One day the mother stayed over long.

"So my husband went to a speakeasy and that's the last time I saw him alive. A cop and a bartender hit him over the head. He fell and died from a fractured skull, they say. But it's murder, and I'm going to see justice done."

STRANGER THAN FICTION
I did not believe the story and said so. It was a manufactured appeal for sympathy. So, with a jobless printer, a professional bum and a woman of the park benches, we went to the morgue in the early hours of the morning.

Her story had been true. So there was nothing to do but leave a few dollars and see them back to their outdoor bedroom.

Somewhat, buses kept passing in Fifth Avenue, taxis skidded on damp pavements and the home goes hurried past.

The woman, curled up on a bench—seemingly undisturbed. As I walked slowly toward the avenue, the regulars—tucked themselves under newspapers—none of which, obviously, would find space for the death of a derelict.

STRIKE THREATENS DOLLS AND TOYS
Christmas Supply in Eastern States Affected as 3,000 Ask Higher Pay

New York, Aug. 31.—More than 3,000 workers engaged in making dolls and stuffed toys in seventy-five shops in the city went on strike for more wages and better working conditions following a call by the Doll and Toy Workers' Union.

According to strike leaders the men and women represented in the walkout make most of the dolls and stuffed toys produced in the United States. Sweatshop conditions and low wages were given as reasons for the strike, which was called after the union, a newly-formed organization, had failed to obtain satisfactory agreements from the individual employers.

Joseph B. Cannon, chairman of the union's advisory committee, declared the strike was timed to coincide with the beginning of the season in the industry and that if prolonged would affect materially the Christmas toy trade. Mr. Cannon said the union has applied for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, whose support in the strike is expected.

"Few people buying dolls and toys know of the conditions under which they are produced in this city," Mr. Cannon said. "The present wage scale ranges from $8 to $18 a week, with no standard of hours and no overtime rate. The sanitary conditions in the factories are such that they not only endanger the health of the workers but also of purchasers of the dolls and toys. It is to obtain a betterment of these conditions that we have called this strike."

The union demands a 35 per cent increase in wages, a forty-hour week, equalization of work, recognition of the union and payment of wages upon a stated work day. It is charged by the strike leaders that frequently workers have had their pay held up indefinitely, and that in some cases they have had to resort to the courts to obtain payment.

The strike went into effect early yesterday morning when the workers assembled in Stuyvesant Casino, Ninth Street and Second Avenue, and in the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, 219 Second Street, where the strike organization was perfected. The strikers were addressed by Sam Parulla, president of the union, Mr. Cannon, and others.

The strike leaders charged that while the industry prospered during the war it has since then been experiencing a steady decline, due to "cut-throat competition," lack of proper organization and the failure of employers to adjust themselves to modern production methods.

About 1,000 strikers attended the meeting in Stuyvesant Casino, and an equal number were present at the Brownsville Labor Lyceum. Plans were worked out for picketing the shops.

ARRANGE 1933 MEET AT BANFF

Institute of Pacific Relations to Meet at Canadian Rockies
Resort Next Year

Banff, Aug. 31.—With delegates from nine countries and observers from various national and international governing authorities, the institute of Pacific relations will hold its biennial conference in the Banff Springs Hotel during the latter part of August, 1933, according to an announcement by Charles F. Loomis of Honolulu, the organization's acting general secretary who is here to complete the preliminary arrangements and confer with Hon. Newton W. Rowell, chairman of the Canadian section.

Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, United States, Philippines, China, Japan and probably Russia will send representatives, while Canada will be the host nation.

Observers will attend on behalf of France, the Dutch East Indies, the League of Nations and the International Labor office at Geneva. While political problems have been the main subjects of debate at previous gatherings of the institute, Mr. Loomis explained that the 1933 conference would devote its efforts to "economic conflict and control" and "economic planning."

This will give scope for the following topics as already outlined in the tentative agenda: Tariffs, imperial and export of capital, commercial, banking and shipping policies, control of raw materials, communications social effect of planning in economics, national and international economic planning, and agricultural planning with its special problems. Data papers are already being prepared by the various countries interested in the conference.

Over 200 delegates are expected at the meeting and the accompanying observers and press gallery, will bring the total to an even higher figure.

CITY LIFE IRKS ARMY PIGEONS

But Red Admiral Flies From 150 Miles Out in Ocean to Shore in Three Hours

New York, Aug. 31.—The Red Admiral stood upon one foot among the beech-mast, acorns and grain and dreamed of the wooded slopes and the sea-fronted crags. His bright eye was dimmed with ennui as he appraised the spectators. Instinctively he longed for the tall timber and the sweep of the open plain.

For the Red Admiral, a veteran homing pigeon of an honorable and heroic record, stood with three of his colleagues in the Federal Hall of Bryant Park and looked wistfully first at the coats of revolutionary heroes and then at the caissons of portable machine guns that flanked his cage. Nearby Doughboy, the ace of carrier pigeons, drowned in a shaft of afternoon sunlight that fell through the front portal of the hall. To his left was Babe Ruth, and on his right reposed the youngest, the untired George Washington.

"These birds," said Staff Sergeant Herbert E. Smith, "do a mile-a-minute in the air. Doughboy, of course, is the king-pin and he knows it. He knows all the rules of navigation and fifty-flying is his specialty. Two years ago they took him down to Chattanooga for the national marathon. They had more than a thousand of the ace birds in the United States and they landed them loose from the north point of Lookout Mountain. Doughboy led the field with the best elapsed time of the lot."

"Of course you have got to figure the Red Admiral in any race that is flown. Last summer he went to Europe and on the return trip they let him loose over the ocean 150 miles from shore. Three hours later he rang the bell at the Port Monmouth loft."

"To-morrow in the afternoon we are going to let them loose here. You can not tell which one will get back to Port Monmouth first. It is fifty-five miles and the slowest one in the lot—only a year old and has not got his bearing very well yet—will be there in fifty-five minutes. It is a sight and nobody can do it out."

"They are just like race horses. From two years old until they are five they are in their prime. But some of them live eighteen or twenty years. They will always go home and nobody needs to tell them which way to go to get there. Once down at Port Bliss, near El Paso, where we had to use pigeons for communications in those days, one of them got a clipped wing in flight. They will not fly at night and some greaser, full of devilment, must have clipped him. It did not make any difference."

ference. He came in, walking, a few days later. The sergeant walked out into the park and sat down in one of the tennis occupied by Company A of the Sixteenth Infantry. "Animals are funny," he said. "We had a dog that took the bait. Nigger is his name. When the boys left Governor's Island Nigger began to take on. He nearly went crazy. Finally they brought Nigger—half water spaniel and half something else that I guess is not in any of the books—over here. But he could not stand it. He went back." The sergeant knocked the ashes from his pipe against the tent pole. "New York is all right," he said, "but animals do not like it."

REVOLT PLOT IS FRUSTRATED

Associated Press
Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 31.—Police throughout Spain today were preparing to stamp out a Communist uprising scheduled to start in Madrid Saturday and extend through the provinces, it was reliably reported in police circles.

Advance information of the conspiracy was said to have been obtained when police surprised a Communist meeting here several days ago, arresting eight men and confiscating various letters relating to the plan. A sixteen-year-old boy subsequently was released and he promptly advised Communist headquarters. The police were forewarned.

their effect on Canadian trade, Canadian economic relations with Russia, the Imperial Conference and branch industries established in Canada and by Canadian interests abroad.

Over 200 delegates are expected at the meeting and the accompanying observers and press gallery, will bring the total to an even higher figure.

Observers will attend on behalf of France, the Dutch East Indies, the League of Nations and the International Labor office at Geneva. While political problems have been the main subjects of debate at previous gatherings of the institute, Mr. Loomis explained that the 1933 conference would devote its efforts to "economic conflict and control" and "economic planning."

This will give scope for the following topics as already outlined in the tentative agenda: Tariffs, imperial and export of capital, commercial, banking and shipping policies, control of raw materials, communications social effect of planning in economics, national and international economic planning, and agricultural planning with its special problems. Data papers are already being prepared by the various countries interested in the conference.

FINE CAST AT THE DOMINION

Phillips Holmes, W. Huston, Tully Marshall, Jean Hersholt in "Night Court"

"Night Court," Metro-Goldwyn-
Mayer's newest offering, was screened to-day at the Dominion Theatre. Here is a daring picture, presented in a striking manner, splendid in entertainment values.

Directed by W. S. Van Dyke from an original story by Mark Hellinger and Charles Beahan, the film takes as its premise the situation of an unscrupulous man, occupying the bench of a magistrate and using his court power to further the criminal activities in which he is involved. When a judicial inquiry threatens his security, the judge manages to "frame" an innocent girl, the accidental possessor of damaging information, and throws her in jail where his revelations are hidden from inquisitorial minds.

Phillips Holmes, as the taxi driver whose young wife is sent to prison, heads the cast. Walter Huston is magnificent in a role deserving of no sympathy, that of the crooked judge.
Anita Page offers a surprise in the role of the framed girl, turning in a performance that makes us wonder why this talent has been allowed to remain dormant beneath a veneer of jazz-baby roles. Lewis Stone is the presiding justice, who is slain by underworld hirelings and Jean Hersholt is the tenement house janitor who unwittingly aids the railroad of the judge's paramour and other appropriate characterizations are played by John Miljan, Tully Marshall, Warner
Richmond and Mary Carlisle.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Walking is Edward G. Robinson's favorite form of exercise. Music is his chief recreation. The star of First National's "Two Seconds," now at the Capitol Theatre, never misses his early morning walk, except when working during a night sequence at the studio.
Weather never causes him to alter his programme in this respect.

Also on the double bill is "Week-end and Marriage."
Alfred MacMahon's fear of being
"typed" is over. After scoring her first film success as the secretary in "Five Star Final," it was followed by other secretarial roles, until she began to think that was all she was ever going to play. She now blossoms out as Loretta Young's older sister in "Weekend Marriage."

EMPIRE THEATRE

Jean Crawford and Clarke Gable, who appeared together to advantage in "Laughing Sinners," score a second time in "Possessed," which is at the Empire Theatre.

Miss Crawford appears as a poor girl who goes from a paper box factory to make a dramatic stand for wealth and luxury on New York's Park Avenue, whereas Gable is seen as a candidate for the state governor-ship who suddenly finds his political ambitions thwarted by his interest in the beautiful heroine.

The story is vivid and fast-moving, considerable credit for which goes to the able direction of Clarence Brown and the work of such supporting players as Wallace Ford, Skeets Gallagher,
Frank Conroy, Marjorie White, John
Miljan and Clara Blandick.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Warner Baxter, popular screen idol, portrays the leading role in "Surrender," the Fox production, current success at the Playhouse Theatre. He appears as a prisoner of war in a desolate camp who falls in love with one of the fairest daughters of Prussian nobility. Lella Hyams portrays the role of the girl and shares the romantic interest with Baxter. Others in important roles are Ralph Bellamy,
Alexander Kirkland, William Pawley,
Howard Phillips, Bert Hanlon, George
Andre Beranger and Bodil Rosing.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

D. W. Griffith's immortal presentation of the New England pastoral play,
"Way Down East," has come to life in sound and synchronized musical effects to such an extent that its new presentments are meeting with marked success.

The newer version of the melodramatic triumph of a preceding decade is being shown at the Columbia
Theatre to-day.

SAYS FAMILY IS PERSECUTED

Sylvia Pankhurst Organizing Women to Aid Matteotti's Widow in Italy

An international movement of women to obtain the release from Italy of the family of the late Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist Deputy who was killed by Fascists in Rome, some years ago, has been launched from London under the leadership of Sylvia Pankhurst, who has addressed an appeal to women to join in the movement.

TO PLEAD WITH MUSSOLINI
In a letter received from Miss Pankhurst by Gianfranco Valentini, editor of La Stampa Libera, anti-Fascist daily published in New York, Miss Pankhurst announced that a committee of women representing various countries is to be created to go to Italy and plead with Premier Mussolini for permission for Signora Matteotti and her children to leave Italy or else to be relieved of what Miss Pankhurst in her letter described as the persecution to which they are being subjected.

Miss Pankhurst requested that a group of American women be organized to co-operate in the undertaking. Mr. Valentini announced that steps will be taken immediately toward formation of such a group.

Co-operating with the Women's International Matteotti committee, the organization directing the movement from London, of which Miss Pankhurst is secretary, are the following: Victoria Kent, deputy of Henrietta Holland Holst, Dutch poetess; Ethel Mannin, the novelist, and other women of prominence.

WIDOW PERSECUTED
All the world is aware of the murder of the Italian Deputy G. Matteotti, Parliamentary leader and secretary to the Italian Socialist Party, who was assassinated by the direct instigation of the Fascist government, after he had delivered a powerful attack on the corrupt and violent tactics of the Fascist Party, wrote Miss Pankhurst to Mr. Valentini.

"Comparatively few know that since the murder of her husband Signora Vella Matteotti has lived under a heavy continuous persecution. The Fascist police have given her a warning, which is in effect a threat, not to visit her husband's grave, if she cares for her children. Police have followed her wherever she goes. Her dwelling is under the observation of fifty agents controlled by an officer of the militia. The very name of Matteotti is not permitted to be uttered by anyone who is not allowed to bear it."

"The persecution of the Matteotti family has come to a pass where international action is a clamant need. I do not doubt that once the facts are widely known a great volume of international public opinion will be formed in defense of this blameless and tragically ill-used family."

Their Excellencies Meet Citizens At Reception

Over 500 Victorians Attend Public Function at Parliament Buildings; Lady Bessborough Regal and Beautiful Figure; Charming Smile Grooms All

Baskets of flame-colored gladioli and carnations and masses of ferns helped transform the usual business-like atmosphere of the Legislative Chamber into festival mien yesterday evening when Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough held a public reception at the Parliament Buildings, their first public function in Victoria. About 500 members of the general public attended the affair, and from 9:40 o'clock until 10:15 a steady stream of citizens passed before the flower-banked speaker's dais on which were seated the Earl and Lady Bessborough.

The Governor-General, wearing formal evening dress, his decorations including the ribbon of the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George, and the Cross of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem and his numerous medals, entered the Legislative Chamber shortly after 9:30 o'clock, accompanied by the Countess, a regal and beautiful figure in her gown of glacier-blue brocade satin, its tiny flowered design outlined in shimmering beads. Her Excellency's ornaments included a double rope of pearls, and diamond and sapphire bracelets, and on her left shoulder she wore the white cross of the Order of Lady of Grace of Jerusalem.

Other members of the vice-regal party included His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Fordham Johnson, who wore a handsome gown of black lace and georgette, Miss Helen Fordham Johnson, in an evening frock of apricot georgette, with frilled skirt and deep cape collar; Capt. Robert Molson, A.D.C., and Mrs. Molson, who was in a smart gown of Spanish tile georgette with deep décolletage, Viscountess Duncan, secretary to His Excellency, Capt. R. H. Stuart French, A.D.C., Lieut. D. H. Fuller, R.N.; Major W. H. Harty, honor. A.D.C. to His Excellency; Major A. Selden Humphreys and A. M. D. Fairbairn.

CABINET AND WIVES
Awaiting the arrival of the vice-regal party in the Legislative chamber were: Premier Trueman, and his daughter, Mrs. Leonard P. Andrews, who was handsomely gowned in fine black lace over georgette, with a spray of silver flowers marking the décolletage at the left shoulder, and members of the provincial cabinet and their wives.

This group included Hon. S. L. Howe and Mrs. Howe, gowned in a Jean Paton model of black lace, the design outlined in steel beads; Hon. R. H. Pooley and Mrs. Pooley, wearing black velvet and lace, with a handsome Spanish shawl wrap; Hon. J. W. Jones and Mrs. Jones, whose gown was of Nile green satin, with cordings in pastel shades; Hon. N. S. Loughheed and Mrs. Loughheed, wearing midnight blue lace and georgette; Hon. Wm. Atkinson and Mrs. Atkinson, whose graceful evening gown was of a delicate peach shade; Hon. W. A. McKenzie and Mrs. McKenzie, the latter in amethyst panne velvet; Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, accompanied by Mrs. Hinchcliffe, wearing deep sapphire blue georgette, and Don. C. P. Davis and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Davis wearing flame-colored georgette with girle and stole-like collar of black, grey and white beads; and Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Hon. Betty Bapty and Miss Margaret Sheret were also in this group and were specially presented to Their Excellencies.

The general gauding in single file past the guard of members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (16th Battalion) and the R.C.M.P. were presented to Their Excellencies, who were seated on the Speaker's dais, receiving a gracious bow and charming smile from the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough. Mr. Fairbairn announced the names. The guests left the hall by the west door.

Yesterday evening's function was arranged by the provincial government, at the special request of Their Excellencies, Hon. S. L. Howe, provincial secretary, having charge of the arrangements.

The terms of the settlement reported by the newspaper call for payment to his wife of $50,000 outright, $1,000 monthly for life, and a half-interest in their $100,000 Beverly Hills, Cal., estate.

Victoria W.I. Social—The Victoria Women's Institute will hold a social at the home of Mrs. W. Fedin, 27 Olympia Avenue, on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Members and friends will be welcomed. Members are reminded to bring as many things as possible, suitable for conversion into collection boxes for the Institute's annual tag day for the Solarium, to be held on September 17.

HONEYMOONED ON BRIDE'S MONEY

Mrs. Maxine Parker took a husband on the West Coast and then began a honeymoon which led through Mexico and into Miami. On the trip Parker spent freely of his wife's small fortune of $8,000. On arriving at Miami, Parker asked her to send $4,000 in care of a telegraph company in Los Angeles. After she had done so, the bridegroom turned up missing. Suspecting a dark person in the woodwork, Mrs. Parker sought the aid of city police. Detective Joe Jenkins left for Los Angeles by airplane, striving to reach there ahead of Parker. He did, and came back with his prisoner. The arrest cost Mrs. Parker $1,000 but she saved $3,000 thereby.

Last Party For Sunshine Camp Go Out Tuesday

Another summer of happy memories for many of Victoria's needy mothers and children draws to a close. On Tuesday next the seventh and last party will be taken to camp to enjoy for two weeks the benefits of a country vacation in clean and modern cottages. This is the eighth year that the Social Service League has planned holidays for mothers and children and the fourth year they have had their location at Saanich, their quarters known as Sunshine Camp.

The expenses for the maintenance of the camp for the summer are $2,000, of which $1,500 has already been donated. The City Hall employees kindly assisted with $26.63 and the Victoria Police Mutual Benefit Association with $10. The Social Service League appeals for funds with which to meet its obligations in providing a care-free and happy time to those who have been so deserving of it.

The sixth party was driven out to camp through the kindness of the Metropolitan Church. On the last Saturday night of its stay in camp, each group arranges a concert and last Saturday evening a large bonfire was built on the beach. Each of the party, which consisted of eleven mothers and thirty-nine children, participated in singing the songs and the treats provided. While gathered around the bonfire, the mothers expressed their gratefulness to the directors of the Sunshine Camp because of their relief from worries and a nourishing meal, and for the fresh air and rest.

Payne, the child receiving the names Angela Marie Caroline Frances. The god-parents were: Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Dick of London, England, and grandmother of the baby, and Mr. A. Woodcroft, an uncle. Following the service, Mr. and Mrs. Dick entertained the twenty-five guests at the tea hour at their home on Beach Drive. The christening cake, which centred the tea table, was decorated in a color scheme of pink and pale yellow.

Nearly 200 attended the enjoyable dance held at the Armories yesterday evening when "C" Company of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment (16th C.E.P.), entertained in honor of the guard of honor which took part in the ceremonies attendant upon the arrival of the Earl and Countess of Bessborough yesterday afternoon. Capt. Stuart Robertson, company officer commanding, welcomed the guests and Col. Stephen Stephenson, officer commanding the First Battalion, and Mrs. Stephenson; Major A. J. Gray, officer in command of the guard of honor, and Mrs. Gray; Capt. Ralph Matthews and Lieut. J. Parker, who were also assisting in charge of the guard, were present, in addition to many of the officers of the battalion and their wives. Flags and bunting were used in decoration of the bandroom where dancing took place to the strains of a three-piece orchestra, and in the mezzanine where supper was served.

Victoria students of the University of British Columbia will be interested in the marriage of Dr. H. J. Friend Day, of the economics department, and Miss Fanny Lindermere, which was solemnized on Saturday evening at St. Alban's Church, Burnaby. Most Rev. A. U. de Pencier officiated, assisted by Rev. C. B. Clarke and Rev. W. Friend Day of Montreal, brother of the groom. The bride, a daughter of Mrs. R. Lindermere, was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Beffitt, and Rev. Cyril Stone was best man, and the Misses Mary and Jean Lindermere were their sister's bridesmaids. Fashioned of white silk net with triple skirt flounces, the bridal gown was completed by a waist length cape of cameo pink net to match the shade of a becoming picture bride. Her flowers were pink and white mums and golden taffeta with brief puffed sleeves, the bridesmaids wore large matching capeline chapeau and carried pink and mauve gadioli. After a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Archer, Dr. and Mrs. Friend Day left for a honeymoon trip to Alaska.

Late Victorian's
Book Published
Posthumously

Friends of the late Miss A. Ermainger Fraser, who passed away two years ago, will be interested to learn that her historical novel, "The Drum of Lanoray," which deals with the early history of Quebec, has been published posthumously by Sampson Low, Marston & Company, London, Eng., and will be distributed in Canada through the Ryerson Press, Toronto.

Miss Fraser, who was the daughter of Donald Fraser, Esquimalt, was well known in educational and literary circles through British Columbia and Canada. She taught for some years at the South Park School in Victoria, and for some years in Seattle, and for the ten years prior to her death was instructor in English at King Edward High School, Vancouver. The Drum of Lanoray was accepted for publication by Louis Carriere, Montreal, but that firm having closed its doors, the MSS of the book was taken over by Donald A. Fraser, cousin of the author, through whose efforts it was placed with the Ryerson Press and the London firm of publishers.

Central W.C.T.U. — The monthly meeting of the Central W.C.T.U. will be held on Friday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. at 3 o'clock. The election of officers will take place. Members are reminded to bring in their newspaper clippings for the contest.

SISTER
KITCHENNOURISHING DRINKS
FOR NOON-TIME

By SISTER MARY.

Hot noon-are—very trying and special foods seem to be needed to tempt us. Children especially require extra care with particular emphasis on their diet. The nourishing drink that makes a complete meal when served with vegetable sandwiches solves the luncheon problem most satisfactorily and appetizingly.

Chocolate is usually a favorite flavor, so the recipe features it, but any preferred flavor can be used. Fruit juices, spices, vanilla, almond, pistachio—in fact, anything you may fancy can be combined with milk to make a refreshing and nourishing drink. The syrup from preserves, jam or jelly adds more flavors to the list.

Milk and egg or milk alone is used with the chosen flavor. Powdered, condensed and evaporated milk can be used with as good results as if fresh milk were used. Keep in mind that no sugar will be necessary in the drink made with condensed milk.

Remember, too, that the drink made without egg is not as rich in food value as the one made with egg.

CHOCOLATE EGGNOG

One egg, 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup, 2-3 cup milk, few grains salt.

Put syrup, milk egg and salt into a glass and beat thoroughly with a small dower beater. Serve at once.

It's a good plan to have all the ingredients as well as the glass thoroughly chilled before mixing. Ice should not be served in a milk drink and the drink should not be chilled after mixing because it does not improve on standing.

CHOCOLATE MILK SHAKE

One cup chilled milk, 3 tablespoons chocolate syrup, 1 tablespoon whipped cream, dash of cinnamon.

Put syrup and milk into a glass and beat well. Top with whipped cream and sprinkle a dash of cinnamon over the whipped cream.

ORANGE WHIP

This rule will serve two persons:

One egg, 1 1/4 cups chilled milk, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 orange, few grains salt.

Squeeze juice from orange and grate rind. Combine grated rind and juice and let stand while separating white from yolk of egg. Beat egg yolk with sugar and add strained juice. Beat well and add milk and salt. Mix thoroughly and fold in white of egg beaten until stiff. Be sure to chill orange and egg as well as milk.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Cantaloupe, scrambled eggs with rice, whole wheat muffins, coffee.

Luncheon: Open lettuce and tomato sandwiches, chocolate eggnog, two cakes, sliced peaches.

Dinner: Baked ham, scalloped potatoes, mustard greens with lemon sauce, watermelon and green pepper salad, baked pears with whipped cream, milk, coffee.

METCHOSIN

Miss Constance Stuart has returned to Deep Cove after visiting her mother, Mrs. Stuart.

J. E. Cann has returned to India to resume duty on the northwest frontier with the intelligence department of the British army. He has been on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cann, at Rocky Point.

Mrs. C. H. Helgeson and her infant son have returned home. Her mother, Mrs. Minnie, will stay with her for a few weeks.

MILLIONAIRESS
DIES PENNILESS

Estate of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick Practically Nothing, Say Lawyers

Chicago, Aug. 30. — Did Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, social dictator of Chicago for thirty years and long known as the "world's richest woman," die practically penniless?

Lawyers and business associates familiar with the estate that once was valued at more than $40,000,000, said to-day it may have shrunk to such an extent that only enough remained to settle outstanding obligations.

Under present real estate valuations, those familiar with the McCormick holdings, said the estate probably is worth very little.

"After it all is summed up, the estate may not be worth a cent," said former Judge Charles S. Cutting, who drew up Mrs. McCormick's will just three weeks before she died last Thursday.

Financial conditions improve, the holdings may turn out to be worth a considerable sum. There is no one who could estimate accurately the value at present.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BE GENEROUS WITH DETAILS ABOUT YOUR "PROBLEM"

All children seem appetiteless if their mothers' statements are to be trusted. Very few mothers who write me admit that their babies or children eat heartily. It is my guess that mothers expect their children to consume more food than they actually need. If the child is always urged to eat more than he desires, his distaste for food and for the task of eating is aggravated. Appetitelessness becomes inevitable.

If less food than the child desires is set before him, he will consume it with eagerness. That "one more mouthful," which is so much a part of the mother's desire but not the child's, often arouses the child's belief that eating is an enormous satisfaction to his mother, but not so much so to him.

NO APPETITE

Mrs. C. K. says she is a constant reader of my department. "I want to seek advice about my daughter who is two years old. She has been puny from birth, and I wish you could help me with her. She has no appetite whatever. She is supposed to drink one quart of milk a day, but I doubt if she drinks one quart in six months. She eats very little solid food and naturally looks puny. She is about two pounds overweight."

"She has colds all winter long and vomits constantly when she is sick. Can you recommend a tonic for her? Do you think she will outgrow this condition? She is a very active child and is outdoors all day long and gets eleven to twelve hours sleep each day. Please advise me what is best for her?"

MORE DETAILS, PLEASE

The question here is, what does she eat? She does not drink milk and eats hardly any solid food, yet she is only two pounds overweight, not a serious amount.

Your letter leaves me confused. In fact, it really contains no information about the child at all. What is her present weight and birth weight? Let me judge whether she eats "heartily" anything? When does she sleep or rest in daytime? When does she go to bed at night? There may be lots of room for improvement in the way the child's day is managed and the food that she is offered.

CONSULT SPECIALIST

It is impossible to suggest tonics. Medicines must be advised by a doctor for the condition that needs remedying. There may be nothing at all wrong with the child's appetite except that she is not being fed rightly or at the right hours, or is constantly asked to eat more food than she wants. If I am to be of the least help, I will have to know everything about the child that you can tell me. Simply stating that the child is puny and appetiteless gives me nothing to work upon.

I shall be happy to send you my leaflets, "Schedules for the Pre-school Child," "Diet from Two to Four Years," and "Increasing the Child's Consumption of Milk," for only one self-addressed, stamped envelope. Take the child to a good child specialist for a thorough examination to find out the probable causes for constant colds and the vomiting. These must be the result of some physical condition which needs attention. The appetitelessness may hinge on that.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1932
Friendly stars dominate to-day, according to astrology. After midday the planetary influences are exceedingly good.

In the morning there may be a disinclination to work with the hands. Discontent in certain industries is indicated.

Farmers for whom better conditions are foretold, may find weather conducive to hardship in the early autumn. Heavy rains in many places are foretold.

The stars appear to promise increase in the busy lines of industrial activity. The aspects to-day are favorable for constructive work with the hands.

Building of public edifices as well as roads and bridges should mark the next few weeks, the seers prognosticate.

Success for men who have courage and hardihood in the early autumn. The planetary influences are to be in greater favor than ever before, and all forms of publicity will be sought in the coming months. It is prophesied: While this configuration continues shopping should be more than usually lucky. It is a day to purchase clothing and household necessities.

Planets in the sign of Virgo may bring to the world much that is cheering. The welfare of workers of every sort is to be considered, astrologers announce. Science is to be applied to production and distribution. Trade is to be subjected to new laws, it is foretold, and economists will be studied with an access of understanding.

This should be a fairly happy wedding day, for the stars presage long association and steady prosperity.

Persons whose birthdays it is have the augury of a year of pleasure in which more or less adventure is probable. Business success is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be studious and sagacious. Subjects of this sign usually have power to work out important careers.

James Gordon Bennett, founder of The New York Herald, was born on this day, 1793. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Stephen Alexander, 1866, astronomer. Lady Huntingdon, 1791, poet, and Henry Clay, 1817, educator.

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

"I'll leave that to you," Steve said, gravely.

"But about the Empress," Barry reminded. "Even I don't know where he keeps that."

"The Empress? Oh, yes," Steve straightened. "Tell you what I did with it. Remember, I know a thing or two about crooks. There was a man in the old gang named Bridgie Hayden. He was a 'tip'—used to steal jewels right from the necks of women who came into the supper club. Time after time police would be called in but no one could ever find the diamonds on Bridgie. He'd sit there drinking ginger ale and maybe eating a sandwich before a bowl of cracked ice. The table would be cleared right under the eyes of the police and there were the jewels, hidden in a bowl of ice!"

"Is the Empress to be found among the sardines and maraschinos?" Lottie asked.

Steve smiled and shook his head. "Not exactly. I put it in the top ice tray of the refrigerator."

"The refrigerator?" Even Barry gasped in amazement. "Barry had not guessed Steve's hiding place."

"Yes, I bent the tray so Morgan couldn't take it out very easily and would be sure to use the lower one when he needed ice cubes. The Empress is as secure there as it would be locked in a safe!"

"Oh, Steve—you didn't! Worth a fortune and you left it waiting to slide into somebody's ginger ale!"

"Let's see it, Steve!"

"Wait," Steve said mysteriously. He rose, twirled the dial of the radio and strains of dance music floated into the softly lighted room.

He and Lottie whirled into a dance while Mona and Barry sat watching. The dance ended and the four had a few hands of bridge. The game was going merrily when the telephone rang. Steve answered to return with a serious face.

He looked at Mona sympathetically. "It's for you," he said seriously. "Bud's downstairs and wants you to come home. He has a cab waiting. Said he'd rather Barry and I didn't come along."

Mona's face had drained of color as she arose.

"I'll go with you," Lottie said, disappearing into the region where they had left their coats. She was back with Mona's wraps before the other girl had gathered herself together sufficiently to speak.

"Don't worry," Barry begged as he helped Mona into her coat.

Bud appeared then at the door of the apartment. "It's nothing really," he said. "Ma just felt bad and wanted you home. I'll get a doctor if you say so. I don't think it's anything serious, though."

The three stood waiting for the elevator.

"Mona," Steve said, "I'm sorry Bud thinks we shouldn't go with you. Telephone us, will you, when you get home? We'll be here." He paused uncertainly and then added, "Or wait—we're due at the club. Telephone us there if you don't hear from us."

Mona agreed. The elevator arrived and the anxious little group dispersed.

"The club?" Barry asked in a puzzled tone. "Are we going there?"

For answer Steve shook his head mysteriously and shoved Barry into the apartment. "Do you think I'd have let that girl go home alone if I thought her mother was really ill?"

Rapidly he examined the outer door of the apartment. A flicker of annoyance passed over his face.

"Then you said that—?" Barry began. Steve nodded. "Exactly!" He pointed to the door. "Mona took an impression of the lock while he was waiting. He'll be back because he thinks we're going out. Are you game for a little reception party?"

"They're coming for the Empress, Steve?"

Steve nodded. "They are! But don't worry about that. Looking around Steve rubbed his hands together. "Now," he chuckled, "we'll show Mr. Buck Harkins we're ready for him!"

CHAPTER XIV

It was not long before Steve telephoned Mona. It was as he had surmised. Her mother, it appeared, was not ill. She had been asleep when they arrived. Mona was going to bed and Bud had escorted Lottie home.

"Mum!" said Steve musingly. "Well, I'm glad your mother is all right. I'll call you to-morrow. Goodnight."

As he put down the telephone he looked at Barry who was regarding him uncertainly.

"No, I don't think the girls were in on this," he said, answering the unspoken question in Barry's eyes. "If that's what you want to know! Somehow Harkins' gang knew—or guessed—that we had the Empress here. Before Bud leaves Lottie'll know where we had it."

"You think Lottie will tell them?" Barry demanded.

Steve shrugged. "She wouldn't mean time, but she couldn't keep from it. Before that cab was around the block she probably gave Mona blazes for not taking the necklace. That would lead straight to the refrigerator and the Empress! Wait, old chap, you'll see."

"Are you sure?"

Steve was changing to soft felt slippers and instructed Barry to do the same.

"Nothing is sure," he said, "except death and taxes—both of which I seem to have evaded thus far. However, right now we can't evade. If they're chumps enough to send Bud back here we have them in our pocket. If they think we're at the club they may send him. They'll reason that any fool can open an ice box."

Quickly Steve pushed two easy chairs well back into the room so that they were almost concealed from view. The two men sat down. They did not smoke but the smell of freshly burning tobacco should apprise the expected visitor of their presence.

Twelve o'clock. One. One-thirty.

At length their vigil was rewarded. The outer door opened cautiously. A spot of light swam into the room, bobbing across the rugs with startling clarity.

Footsteps—waving, then firmer. The circle of light picked out the divan, the paneled wall, hung on the swinging door, which led to the butler's pantry.

Crouching in their chairs, Steve and Barry held their breath.

Someone was walking in the wake of the flashlight, stepping on rugs and avoiding the polished floor, disappeared into the pantry. The door swung noiselessly in the dim light of the window.

"Moran!" Steve breathed, scarcely moving.

"How did he get in?" whispered Barry.

"That gang has a locksmith that could make a key to Buckingham Palace in ten minutes," Steve said. "They don't care much if Bud gets plugged or not, do they?"

Steve was on his feet, motioning Barry to stay where he was. "Rest easy, boy. I'm taking a little stroll. With a cheery and sudden 'Good morning' Steve entered the kitchen just as Bud, with fingers trembling, was about to open the door of the refrigerator.

"Thought you were at the club!" Bud faltered.

"I meant you to think so. What are you doing at that ice box? Did the gang send you for the Empress?"

Bud swung around sharply. "You know what I'm here for, Steve."

The other nodded. "You didn't think you'd get it that easily, did you? Don't be a fool! Here" (indicating the door) "get inside. We're going to have a talk and you can thank your stars that Mona is your sister!"

"It was Lottie who told me where to find the Empress!" Bud blurted.

"Sure. It was Lottie I expected to tell." For a moment Steve and Barry eyed each other.

"Sit down, Bud," Steve said. "Let's talk it over. Smoke?"

He held out his cigarette case and struck a match. The boy ducked his head to catch the flame, his hand trembling.

"Anyone waiting for you down below?" Steve asked after a moment.

"Sure. Out front."

"The rear covered?"

Bud looked at him. "Rear? No. Just two guys waiting down the block with an engine running."

Steve rose, threw off his dressing gown and disappeared into the bedroom. In a moment he emerged, showing his arms into a coat.

"Tell you what we're going to do, Barry," he said. "We're going to ship this kid to the mine. He'll be safe there and the gang can't find him. The Lady Bradford sails to-morrow noon from Boston. Is your car handy, Barry? Mine's in the street where those fellows can spot it."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Last Rose

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, looked once more around the big living-room of the hollow-stump bungalow and said to Nurse Jane, who was with her:

"There, Janie, I think it's just right and we're all ready for our company."

"Yes, Mrs. Longears," agreed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But I think, while the room is lovely, it wants just one thing more."

"What?" asked the rabbit lady, who had been helping with the dusting and arranging the tables and chairs.

"What is needed to make my room look nice for company?"

"There should be a big red rose in that green vase," said Nurse Jane. "Just one rose flower, among all the other blossoms Uncle Wiggily brought you, will make this room perfect."

"Yes, a red rose in the green vase would be beautiful," said Mrs. Longears, "but remember that this is the end of summer. Roses are very scarce now. They were at their best in June. I don't if Wiggily could get me a rose now."

"Oh, there must be one last rose of summer," said Nurse Jane. "Please see if you can find one, Uncle Wiggily."

"All right," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I will. Come hop along with me, Bunty. Perhaps you can help me find a last rose."

So the bunny gentleman and the little orphan rabbit girl hopped together over the fields and through the woods, looking for a rose. They saw many purple flowers, some yellow ones and some blue ones. But no last, red rose could they see until finally hopping down a little hill, toward a pond of water, Bunty saw something red among the green.

"Oh, Uncle Wigg!" cried the little Wiggily to hop over the fields and through the woods and find the last rose of summer to bring here to decorate your room for the company who will come soon."

"All right," said Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "Ask him, but I fear he can find no rose. Though I should love it if he could. Now I must go get the sandwiches ready."

The rabbit lady was going to have many of her animal lady friends for company that afternoon, and while she was getting something to eat ready for them, Nurse Jane hopped to the back door, where Uncle Wiggily was giving Baby Bunty a swing in the hammock and Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy said:

"Will you please see if you can find a rose to decorate the room for company, Mr. Longears? Your wife would like it."

"I'll try," said the rabbit gentleman, "but I fear all the roses are faded and gone."

"Oh, there must be one last rose of summer," said Nurse Jane. "I know there's a lovely song about a last rose. Please see if you can find one, Uncle Wiggily."

"All right," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I will. Come hop along with me, Bunty. Perhaps you can help me find a last rose."

So the bunny gentleman and the little orphan rabbit girl hopped together over the fields and through the woods, looking for a rose. They saw many purple flowers, some yellow ones and some blue ones. But no last, red rose could they see until finally hopping down a little hill, toward a pond of water, Bunty saw something red among the green.

"Oh, Uncle Wigg!" cried the little Wiggily to hop over the fields and orphan rabbit. "Here's a rose!"

"So it is. The last one, I believe," said Mr. Longears. "How very jolly do you mind if I pick you for my wife?" he asked the flower.

"Not at all," said the red rose. "I am lonesome here. All my lovely companions are faded and gone. Take me home with you and I will do my best to make your bungalow look pretty."

Baby Bunty leaped over to take a smell of the last rose before Uncle Wiggily picked it and then, all of a sudden, the little orphan rabbit jumped back and cried: "Ouch!"

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

Letter From Woman Who Refused to Live With Her Children Best Sort of Sermon to One Bereaved of Husband—Proves Her Own Argument In Favor of Being Happy Instead of Dependent

WHEN MY husband died," wrote a woman to me not long ago, "my children insisted that I should come and live with them. Even my sons-in-law declined their kind invitation with thanks.

"No," I said to them, "we are all on the most amiable and delightful terms now and very fond of each other. Let's stay that way."

"But, mother," they protested, "you can not stay in this big house just by yourself."

"I have no intention of doing so," I replied. "I am going to sell it and go and live in a nice comfortable family hotel, where I will have company when I want it, and other unattached women like myself to step out with of an evening when I want to go to the theatre or the movies or a lecture. Of course, a woman's things get to be part of her. They are so full of memories and associations, so I shall take my household goods that I worship most and furnish my bedroom and sitting-room so I shall have the faces of old friends always about me, and the remainder of the things I shall give away. I am not going to be a slave the balance of my life to a few chairs and tables."

"But, mother," they insisted, "you will be so lonely among strangers."

"Not so lonely," I returned, "as I would be if I even supposed that I was a guest who was wearing out her welcome, and that the household would be a little bit less pleasant and everybody a little more comfortable and happy if I was not there. Anyway, I decline to be that most pestiferous pest, the perpetual visitor. I am going to have some place of my own that belongs to me and where I belong, and where I can turn the key and do as I please without consulting anybody else's taste, or convenience, or comfort, or rights."

"So, in spite of their protests, I carried out my plan and it has worked for the happiness of all concerned. Instead of my children having me fastened around their necks like an Old Woman of the Sea that they cannot get rid of, I am an ever-welcome guest in their homes, and because I am a transient guest I do not feel called upon to criticize the cooking, or interfere with the way in which my hosts run their homes and rear their children."

"And this makes for peace, for an interfering old woman with the best intentions in the world can stir up more trouble in a minute in her children's lives than malice could invent in a week.

"And none of us can keep our fingers out of our children's pies. We are so interested in our sons' and daughters' affairs, so anxious to help them, so eager in our desire to keep them from making mistakes, and they still seem such babies to us, no matter how old they are, that we just cannot help thrusting unsought advice upon them, and telling them how we always did thus and so, all of which irritates them to the point of madness."

"Put two women together who belong to different generations, whether they are mother and daughter or mother and daughter-in-law, and they would have to be pin-feathered angels if they did not clash every day on a thousand points, little things that really do not amount to a row of pins, but that keep them sort of sore at each other."

"Now it is literally true that what we do not know does not worry us, and so if we do not see how thick our daughters-in-law feel the potatoes we do not have to warn them about how they are ruining our sons with their wastefulness. And if we do not know how often our sons-in-law play golf we do not have to suggest to our daughters that they had better be attending to their business. And if we do not have our grandchildren's conduct right under our eyes all the time we do not have to throw up our hands and ask what the world is coming to, and say that is not the way we brought our children up."

"Of course, in refusing to live with my children I was considering their welfare first, and facing the fact that any outsider in a home is a menace to it, for it breaks up the intimacy that should exist between a husband and wife. Also, I was recognizing that every woman has a right to run her own house and bring up her own children in her own way, without having any third party butting in."

"But likewise I had my own happiness in mind, and I was reflecting that any mother who goes to live with her children either has to be an irritant or a rubber stamp, and I did not want to be either. I did not want to be in a position where I would either have to yes-yes everything that was said and done, or else start something every time I expressed an opinion."

"Nor would my pride permit me to become one of those parasitic women who have no life, nor friends, nor amusements of their own, but have to depend on their children for them. You know the sort of mothers who are fixtures in the back seat of the automobile when their children go out riding, who have to be dragged around to movies, who have to be included in invitations to dinners and who are generally known as Mrs. So-and-So's mother."

"I wanted to keep my own individuality, my own friends, my own position in society, and I have done it by refusing to live with my children, and I am sure I am a thousand times happier, and so are they for my decision."

Exploring the Solar System

VIII—BRIGHT VENUS

We land safely in Canada. Our journey around the solar system is not yet finished; but it feels good to rest on the dear old earth.

VENUS

Venus compared to the earth

Newspaper men come to greet us, and ask us many questions. We are heroes of the hour, for news about our journey around the solar system has traveled far and wide.

Someone hands us a copy of the Ottawa Citizen and Montreal Star, and we see that we are front page news along with the total eclipse. It seems rather odd to be "front page news," doesn't it?

The eclipse comes, and we look on with wonder and delight. If there was any proof needed that the moon is not a ball of fire-glass and light except reflected sunlight or reflected "earth-shine"—the eclipse supplies us with the proof. A dark world moves over the face of the sun and blots out all light except the flames of the sun's "corona."

After the eclipse is over, we lose little time in renewing our journey around the solar system. Our next visit is to Venus.

In some respects, Venus is more likely than Mars to be the home of vegetable and animal life. It has plenty of air and plenty of water, and must be warm enough to support any kind of life which needs warmth. The chances are that we should find it too warm for comfort.

Alas! This bright and beautiful planet (named after the Roman goddess of love and beauty) is surrounded by a thick coat of clouds. Those clouds have kept men from giving close study to the surface.

Venus is almost as large as the earth. It may be that under those thick clouds, wallowing around in muddy waters, are giant animals on the order of the dinosaurs which once lived on earth.

A great inventor of time to come may make a telescope which will enable scientists to see through the clouds.

W.C.T.U. Leader Scorns Women Wets As "Social Climbers"

White Ribboners Find Dry Law Success As Coast Convention Nears

SEATTLE, Aug. 31.—The women who have worn the white ribbon of the W.C.T.U. since the days when Carrie Nation wrecked saloons with her trusty hatchet aren't worried about the fate of prohibition now, even in this presidential election year of 1932 when the Democratic Party stands committed to repeal and the Republican Party favors reestablishment.

Convinced that prohibition has proved its worth, that the law will withstand all attacks, delegates, representing 500,000 women members throughout the nation plan no change in their strategy. It was made clear during the fifty-eighth annual convention of their organization which has concluded here.

Presiding was Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N.Y., seventy-four-year-old president of the organization, who has devoted upwards of forty years to the fight against liquor.

"Opposition?" says Mrs. Boole. "Prohibition has always had opposition. True, our opposition is better organized to-day and it has plenty of money with which to employ highly-paid publicity workers. Because their programme is opposed to the law, every step they take is news."

"On the other hand, the dries are going quietly about their business of supporting the law and upholding the Constitution. There isn't as much news value in this sort of a programme, but it is just as effective."

"Therefore, Mrs. Boole thinks her own organization has little cause to worry."

"The Women's Christian Temperance Union, says its veteran president, does not recognize its rival, the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform. As an organization, this group of anti-prohibition women simply does not matter, she says."

"The Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform," she continues, "is made up for the most part of women who would like to get into society and they think this is their chance."

"There is not an organization; it is simply an enrolment. All it does is get people to sign their names, and it is easy to persuade people to sign almost any document as long as nothing but a signature is required. The executive committee of this group can't even speak for its constituency. That was proved when it tried to commit the group to the support of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Ella Boole, fifth president of the W.C.T.U., who will preside when the organization's fifty-eighth annual convention is held in Seattle, Wash.

"We look upon the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform merely as a part of the organization against prohibition. It simply exists, that's all."

Contrasted with this group, says Mrs. Boole, there is the W.C.T.U., whose members are checked through the payment of dues. She has no reason to believe, she says, that there is any checking up on the enrolment of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, either for losses by death or through changes of opinion.

In discussing increased opposition to prohibition, Mrs. Boole finds that today's prospect holds no special reason for alarm, although she does not believe that it will require activity on the part of the dries to hold the ground. But she has no worries about their ability to do this.

Mrs. Boole believes decidedly that the emphasis placed on the evils of prohibition by its opponents is unfair. These evils, she asserts, are the result of the violation of the law, not the result of the law itself. The colored illustrations of the law, she adds, is magnified. According to her view, there is far less liquor being consumed to-day than before the advent of the law.

WHITE-HAIRED and motherly, with a demeanor one would expect of a person much younger than her seventy-four years, the fifth president in the history of the sixty-year-old Women's Christian Temperance Union is a veteran of an interesting and colorful career.

Born and educated at Van Wert, O., she won local fame as girl orator in high school and later became a school teacher. At a chautauqua in Rome City, Ind., she met the Rev. William H. Boole, a Methodist minister and early prohibition crusader whose home was in Brooklyn. They were married in 1883, to be parted by his death thirteen years later.

Mrs. Boole, using her talents as an orator, naturally followed her husband into prohibition work and after his death she became even more prominent. In those early days of the movement she was active as a crusader in New York's saloon-infested Bowery. In 1897 she became president of the New York state W.C.T.U. and in 1926 she succeeded Miss Anna Adams Gordon as president of the national organization.

A woman of many abilities, she ran for the United States Senate in 1920 as a prohibition candidate opposed to Senator James Wadsworth. Republican, and polled 150,000 votes. Wadsworth, a wet, was victorious, but when he came up for re-election in 1926 Mrs. Boole and her prohibition forces were instrumental in bringing about his defeat.

At seventy-four to-day she is as active as many women of fifty. A few years ago she fell while entering a New York subway and broke her arm. Refusing offers of first aid or ambulance attention, she rode the subway to her home and telephoned her own doctor to come and attend to her injury.

LATEST BOOKS ON SHELVES OF LOCAL LIBRARY

Among the new books received by the Victoria Public Library this week are "Shakespeare versus Shallow," by Leslie Hotson, the American Shakespearean biographer, and "Initiations and Initiates of Tibet," by Alexandra David-Neel, which are easily the leaders.

"Initiations and Initiates," by Alexandra David-Neel, is an authentic and authoritative work on the esoteric doctrines and magical practices of Tibet. Madame David-Neel has lived for many years among the Tibetans, and knows their language well and has deeply studied their philosophy.

Hotson's "Shakespeare versus Shallow" results in the identification of the original of the two Shakespearean characters. Hotson, a young American scholar famous for his discovery of significant new facts about Shakespeare's life, shows what he has achieved by his efforts and the means by which his detective work is brought to success.

Other non-fiction works received are:

"Lady of Goda's," by Mrs. Ruth Finley, is a biography of Sarah Josephine Hale, who was one of the first woman editors, and for forty years presided over the fortunes of Godey's Magazine. The colored illustrations are chiefly reproductions of fashion plates from Godey's.

"Bad Companions," by William Roughhead, contains stories of eight famous criminals and their crimes, the accounts of which are based on the evidence introduced at their trials.

"Causes and Cures of Unemployment," by Sir William H. Beveridge, is a collection of six radio talks from England on unemployment given during May and June, 1931. The book contains illuminating and constructive comment.

"Social Psychology," by Carl A. Murchison, is a brief essay devoted to the general theme that political domination is a universal fact. The author states that some groups are stronger than other groups, and some individuals are stronger, more intelligent, and more influential than other individuals, and that the stronger always rule the weaker.

"Religions and Hidden Cults of India," by Lieut.-General Sir George MacMunn, is an attempt to answer the questions so often asked about the religions of India and what they really mean. It is written for those who have no time or call for deeper study.

"The Story of the American Indian," by Paul Radin, describes some of the more salient traits of the life of the American Indians in simple and untechnical language. The account is accurate and endeavors to give as much of the color and atmosphere of the Indian cultures as is possible in so brief a sketch.

"Modern Needlecraft," by David C. Minter, was written to meet the revival of interest in decorative stitching, embroidery, knitting, crocheting, as well as the more practical forms of sewing. It deals with every branch of needlecraft in a highly practical way, demonstrating by picture diagram and text those methods proved best by the experienced worker.

"Twenty-five Years of Big Game Hunting," by Brigadier-General R. Pigot, who had traveled and hunted big game in many corners of the world, and is able to record his experiences in a vivid manner. The excellent illustrations greatly increase the sporting value of the book.

"The Political Economy of Free Trade," by Rt. Hon. J. M. Robertson, is a critical study of the practical economics of trade in world-history. Recent British developments are shown to be ominous of disaster to the principle and practice of free trade, by which British prosperity has been built up and by the abandonment of which, the author believes, it will come to an end.

"Some Book-hunting Adventures," by R. S. Garnett, contains reminiscences of a man of letters. The stories are chiefly concerned with books and with the greater writers of the Victorian period, of whom we catch many entertaining glimpses.

"Undiscovered Europe," by Alexander Powell, deals with the people who have been left behind in the march of civilization, and still live like their forefathers. All of them have a compelling charm which makes them well worth knowing.

"Down Under," by R. W. Thompson, is written by a young man who went to Australia in search of life and work. He arrived late in 1926 when everything was booming, and he left in 1930, when everything had crashed; his visit coincided with the most interesting period of Australian history.

"An Introduction to French Painting," by P. G. Konrad and Xenia Latham, is a comprehensive and authoritative survey of the work of French painters from medieval times to the end of the nineteenth century.

"The Technique of Color Photography," by Frank R. Newsom, is intended for the photographer who is making a beginning with photography in color. Only such theory as is of definite assistance in actual practice is given, and working instructions are given for the leading processes in color photography.

TB. DEATH RATE CUT TO NEW LOW

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times—London—Slowly but surely modern medicine and sanitary improvements are conquering tuberculosis, the dreaded "white scourge" which has afflicted all civilized nations. For some years there has been a continuous decline in the death rate from tuberculosis, and this year it is the lowest ever recorded. This is revealed by statistics issued by the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. "All ages and both sexes share in the decline," says the report, "which is more marked in childhood and less marked in young adult life and old age than at other ages."

Several interesting comments on this decline have been made by a leading medical authority. "The causes which are contributing to the lowering of the death rate from tuberculosis," he said, "are those which are making for the better health of the nation all round. Tuberculosis is largely a result of wrong living. It is not so much medical as sanitary science which has conquered it. We have learned the value of fresh air and cleanliness; we know now how to avoid conditions of life and work in which it thrives. We have laws against overcrowding, against workers being exposed to dust-inhalation, against expectoration in public places.

"All these things have helped to build a sturdier population. And, of course, people take more care of themselves than they used to, while compulsory notification enables the disease, where it does exist, to be given the early treatment which means so much."

Strong Y Track Squad To Defend Island Championships

About Twenty Will Compete Up-Island In Labor Day Meet

Will Be Star Competitors From Island in Last Major Track Event of Local Season; Olympic Champion High Jumper, Dunc McNaughton, Will Perform With Other Olympic Men in Exhibitions; Victorians Will Defend Nine Titles and Seek Several More

Twenty track and field stars of Archie McKinnon's flying "Y" squad, including holders of nine Vancouver Island championships, will go to Nanaimo on Labor Day to defend and seek new Island honors in the big meet scheduled at the Coal City on the holiday. They are expected to sweep through to victory in the majority of the events in which they participate.

Their entries in the different events will feature the Island competition. As an additional attraction Dunc McNaughton, Olympic high jump champion; Harold Wright, Canadian Olympic sprinter; Joe Bills, University of Southern California entry in the Olympics for the United States, and other outstanding track and field men will compete in exhibition features.

"Y" LINE-UP

The Victoria "Y" line-up for the different events follows:
Shot put—Art Chapman, Bill Thompson and Paul Brooker.
100 yards, boys 18 and under—Noel Morgan, Owen Bentley and Ben Vesey.
Sprint, girls 18 and under—Zoe Richards, Peggy Brindle and probably Muriel Mallory.
440 yards, open—Joe Addison, Lynn Patrick, Noel Morgan, Chuck Cunninghamham, Chuck Copeland and Ray Kersey.

100 yards, women's open—Zoe Richards, Peggy Brindle and Muriel Mallory.

Hop, step and jump—Lynn Patrick, Art Chapman and Gordie Moore.
High jump, men—Art Chapman and Ed Morgan.

High jump, women—Peggy Brindle and Muriel Mallory.
Pole vault—Owen Bentley, Noel Morgan, Bill Thompson and Paul Brooker.
Relay, one mile—Y.M.C.A. team and probably second squad.

STARRED LAST YEAR

Last year Joe Addison took the 100 and 220-yard sprints, while Copeland won the quarter mile. Muriel Mallory captured the women's 100 and 60-yard dashes, as well as the high jump. Chuck Cunninghamham won the half mile and Art Chapman rounded off a nice day by taking the broad jump, the hop, step and jump and the high jump. In addition to that the "Y" team had little difficulty in annexing the special trophy for the mile relay.

Fresh from their strenuous week-end in Vancouver, where several of them showed up to unusual advantage in the first provincial Junior Olympic, the boys went through their races yesterday evening at the High School. They will practice again on Thursday evening and round off their training schedule for the last major event of the season on Saturday.

It is expected a fair number of Victoria supporters will journey up-island to see the boys in action.

LAWN BOWLING

The singles championship of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club rested to-day in the hands of Archie Findlay, following his brilliant performance yesterday evening when he overcame A. Sinclair by a 21 to 14 score.

As a result of his triumph he will hold the Trustees' Cup, emblematic of the club singles title, for one year. The result of the fixture marked the club victory scored by Findlay.

Brushing Up Sports By Laufer

BIG FIELD DAY PLANNED FRIDAY

Youngsters, who have thronged to the supervised playgrounds of Victoria's parks during the summer, will gather on Friday for a monster field day at the Royal Athletic Park during which a varied programme of athletic events will be run off.

The different contests will start at 1:30 o'clock and will be under the direction of Miss E. Wilby, and H. Carsons, supervisors at Central Park, and Everett Raynor, leader at Victoria West.

Mayor David Leeming and members of the City Council will attend the meet.

Races and field sports will feature the day. During the afternoon the Boys' Band will provide music and ice cream will be given free to the children.

No admission will be charged for the event.

Heavy Selling and Weak Demand Sends Wheat Prices Down

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Heavy selling plus an indifferent demand and weakness to wheat prices to firm in opening trade the market turned irregular to close 1 1/2 cent lower.
Wheat closed at 55 1/2, December at 62 1/2.
A considerable selling pressure developed as the result of hedging but buyers were inclined to believe that a concentrated selling of another character was largely responsible for the depression of prices.
Some export trade resulted from the break and a little was reported worked overnight, but foreign demand generally was not large and there was little encouragement from that source.
Weather in Western Canada continues to delay movement of grain to market.
Weather in Russia was reported as more seasonable for harvesting but collections were still much behind normal. French farmers are delivering wheat in larger quantities and native prices are dropping.
Cash interest in wheat was indifferent with only old lot sales reported. Coarse grain prices slipped in sympathy with wheat.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG
(By Logan & Bryan)
Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Wheat: Wheat started off strong this morning with prices advancing 1/4 to 1/2 over the close last night, but the bulge was only temporary and when some hedging pressure came in from the three individual pools the market turned heavy, prices breaking almost two cents, and the early high. The early strength was due to the very light offerings and some buying on spreads against sales in Chicago but actually there was no real support in the market with export sales almost nil.
There was possibly a little business worked on the break to 56 cents for October, but it was quite small and did not continue and the market eased off still further during the last twenty minutes, sinking into the daily bids. The Chicago market was also weak as were stocks and cotton. Some light hedging came into the market on the clearing weather in the west.
In the cash market there was a fair demand for most grades from shippers who have tonnage to provide for, but offerings were extremely light. Most spreads were fractionally better on the straight grades, but No. 1 durum was off one cent. The business passing was not large. Broomcorn reports that the foreign demand has slowed down with French farmers delivering wheat freely with receipts new wheat and rye in Germany abundant and of good quality and cash prices are continuing to decline.
Liverpool closed strong, being 1/4 to 1/2 higher, probably due to the anticipated light world shipments against this country marketings in the west on Tuesday were 1,120,000 bushels of wheat despite the rains.
Winnipeg futures closed slightly higher than bottom levels, with some buying against the daily bids, but showed losses of 1 1/2 to 1 cent for the day which Chicago closed 1 1/2 to 1/4 lower.
Coarse grains: These markets were extremely quiet. There is very little business of any description and export sales are nil.
Oats closed fairly steady but were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, barley 1/4 to 1/2 lower. Flax lost most of yesterday's advance. Market was dull and featureless. There is practically no crushing demand. Closing prices 1/2 to 1/4 lower.
Rye: Liverpool close 1/2 to 1/4 lower on Winnipeg.

CHANGE RELIEF CONTROL PLAN

Officials Responsible to Cabinet Committee to Direct
Provincial Relief System

All provincial unemployment relief administration in British Columbia will be consolidated under a director and two supervisors, one of whom will be responsible for control of relief in municipalities and the other in charge of relief in unorganized territories.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, yesterday announced the cabinet had approved a plan of reorganization of control, which he had proposed, to centralize authority under an officer responsible to the unemployment committee of the cabinet and distinct from any department of the government.

The proposal for a special officer was advanced by Mr. Bruhn and Mr. J. W. Jones added the recommendation that special supervisors be appointed for municipal and provincial undertakings.

No appointments have yet been made and Mr. Bruhn intimated that the directorship would be given careful study in view of the importance of the office. Selection of the officer to supervise provincial relief within municipalities was expected to be deferred until after consultation with the heads of the municipalities of the province, but the director in charge of unorganized districts would be named by the government itself.

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 31.—Support for the tradition policemen have big feet comes in an official admission from policemen themselves. Two patrolmen here were detailed to do something about a fire. It was in a pile of leaves. Their official report said: "We put the fire out by stamping on it with our big feet."

REWARD HIGH SCHOOL EFFORT

The system of high school scholarships to be instituted by the Saanich School Board will not be of benefit to children entering high school from the elementary schools. Remission of fees must be earned in the high school and will apply against any fees payable in the year following the success. These points were cleared up yesterday evening at a joint conference between the bursary committee of the school board and the principals of the three high schools.

The scholarship system will be brought into effect with the opening of the school year next week. There will be at least eighteen awards, and where the successful students are above sixteen years of age, the award will carry remission of fees for the succeeding year. Fees are payable monthly on the basis of $10 yearly for students over sixteen, $25 yearly for those above seventeen, those over eighteen must pay $50 and the schedule requires those above nineteen to pay $100.

Brilliance in studies being an essential factor in distribution of the rewards, the school board anticipates that the scholarships will automatically be confined to the younger classes. Special honorary scholarship certificates will be given students under sixteen who head the various grades.

EXPECT DONATION

In addition to the bursaries proposed to be provided by remission of fees, it is expected that at least one substantial cash scholarship will be offered. Trustee F. V. Hobbs, chairman of the school board, expressed confidence that private benevolence would provide an annual award of about $100. He had interviewed a number of wealthy residents on the matter and had received assurances of great interest.

Associated Press
Norrington, Pa., Aug. 31.—Beaver Ross, Philadelphia parachute jumper, fell 1,500 feet yesterday evening entangled on the trapeze of a leaking balloon and lives to tell of experience.

He landed atop a string of telephone wires which, he said, undoubtedly saved his life.

Searchers found him unconscious where he had fallen from the wires and took him to a hospital. Doctors said he was seriously injured.

PRISONER SHOUTS AT MAGISTRATE

Canadian Press
Lethbridge, Alta., Aug. 31.—Shouting at Magistrate W. A. Hamilton, shaking his fists and threatening him, Mike Pauls, of Russian-French descent, protested in police court a three-year sentence imposed on him yesterday for house breaking.

Seized by a Mounted Police officer, Pauls resisted, and a fight followed in which fists and batons were freely used. At the same time Pauls's accomplice, Mike Betzko, sentenced to a similar term, put up a fight against the Prince Albert penitentiary.

"You can't do that to me," Pauls shouted to the magistrate, shaking his fists and endeavoring to pull apart the prisoners' box to use as a weapon.

The two men were sent to the Prince Albert penitentiary.

CHARGE FACED BY ALDERMAN

Canadian Press
Windsor, Ont., Aug. 31.—Alderman Thomas Reynolds, "United Front" reference representative in the East Windsor city council, yesterday was charged with making a speech at a public meeting in Windsor City Park, contrary to the parks commission by-law.

The charge followed a meeting held in Riverside Park for which no permit had been secured from the parks commission. The charge was laid by A. L. Moor, secretary-manager of the parks system.

Five men who spoke at a meeting in Lanspeary Park under the auspices of the Canadian Labor Defence League are now serving terms in the Essex County jail for a similar infraction of the park by-law. They took the sentences in lieu of fines. One other speaker paid a $50 fine.
